GAME VARIATIONS:

Ask the Questions

Take turns picking a card and asking the questions. This is the very basic way to play and a great idea for long road trips, long-distance phone calls, or any date with communication goals in mind!

Make a Guess

After reading a card out loud, take time to guess what the other will say before they do. You can secretly write it down or use a coin to show your guess. HEADS = You think they will answer the first choice, TAILS - You think you will answer the second choice. This is a fun version if you enjoy a little competition and a challenge to see how well you know your spouse!

It's a Match

Determine a task or reward to complete for any time your answers match. You can get really creative on this! Maybe for each match, there is a smooch or a compliment - you decide. This is a great choice for adding in some of your own creativity while embracing the similarities and differences that make your relationship tick!
